BARR DEFEATS CHANDLER, ROMNEY BEATS OBAMA IN POWELL AND THE STATE

By KAYLA MAYS &
JAMES COOK
Times Reporter and Times Editor

In what has been considered one of the biggest turnouts for registered voters in years. There was a major upset. The amendment giving Kentuckians a constitutional right to hunt and fish passed in Powell and around the state with ease. The other results were much closer. Republican challenger Mitt Romney took Powell County with 2,726 votes to President Barak Obama's 1,620. Romney also took Kentucky.

The race and results looks to be tight as the Times went to press on Tuesday night. Many political watchers believe that Obama may win the electoral votes but not the popular vote. However, at press time Romney was ahead in both categories. But the margin was slim. Sixth District Congressman Ben Chandler (D) had Powell County to thank in his reelection back in 2010, but this time the county went for Republican challenger Andy Barr. Barr captured 2,350 votes to Chandler's 2,005. Barr upended Chandler this time around to take his seat as both sides used several negative ads. But as Obama fell in Kentucky, the attachment of Chandler to the president may have helped Barr win this race. The 21st District State Senate race went to Democrat Amie Hacker 2,295 to Albert Robinson's 1,906 in the county. But Robinson was able to win the seat thanks to a strong showing in the Republican counties of Laurel, Estill and Jackson. A big surprise came in the Powell County School Board race in District 4. The incumbent David J. Griffin won over his challenger, businessman

John Brewer, by only 11 votes. Griffin picked up 408 votes to Brewer's 397. Some election watchers believe that a recount could be coming, but there was no word at press time of any such request by Brewer. In District 1 the incumbent school board member and current chairperson, Donald Curtis, had no problem against his challenger. Curtis picked up 526 votes to Elihue Shepherd's 370. Board member Evelyn Faulkner in District 5 had no opponent this time around. The city council races also saw a little upset. Incumbent council member Jearl Rogers finished seventh for the six seat council. Charlotte Estes, a former council member who chose to run for mayor last time and lost, regained her seat on the council. Estes picked up the third highest vote total with 568. Dixie Lockard was the top vote getter with 588, followed by Tommy Mays (574), Estes, Margarita Arnett (561), Linville Bellamy (557) and Pam McIntosh Tipton (538). The other challenger, Randall Sparks picked up 372 votes. The Clay City Council had nothing but incumbents running. Garland Lacy won the most votes with 159, followed by Kenny Rice (153), Bobby Carmichael (143), Ralph D. Patrick (135), William "Bill" Knox (133) and Al Campbell (130). 39th Judicial District Commonwealth Attorney Darrell Herald ran unopposed, as did Powell Circuit Clerk Darlene Drake and State Representative Richard Henderson. The race for the 7th District of the Kentucky State Supreme Court went to Will T. Scott in Powell County. Scott beat Janet Stumbo, 1,937 to 1,708. The county results are located on Page 19 this week.

Dale, Alison and Garrett Thomas

When Dale and Alison Thomas first met as young musicians at Meadowgreen Park in Clay City in early 2005, they couldn't have imagined in their wildest dreams the path they'd be walking together several years later. Dale was playing the banjo in a band, and Alison was singing with another group. In July of that year, they met again at the Lexington Bluegrass Festival. Pretty soon the two were dating; three years later, they got married. Dale, whose parents are Roger and Terri Thomas, is in the Marine Corp and was stationed in Camp Lejeune in North Carolina, so Alison enrolled in college at University North Carolina Wilmington where she earned a degree in elementary education. Her parents are Darrell Wasson and Marcella Wasson from Stanton. Dale was deployed to Africa in early August of 2010, and it wasn't long until Alison found out they were expecting. She came home to Kentucky to spend a few months with family while Dale was deployed in Africa. Eager to learn the sex of their baby, Alison made an appointment with Baby Belly Spa in Lexington at 16 weeks gestation. During that ultrasound, the tech noticed that something wasn't right. "She told me I needed to get to the doctor tomorrow," said Alison. "I could tell by her face that something was very wrong. "I didn't even have a doctor here, because I thought I'd be giving birth at the Naval Hospital in North Carolina." By the end of the next day, Alison learned that her baby had a posterior urethral valve, or PUV, a birth defect that afflicts only 1 in 8000 boys. PUV is a bladder outlet obstruction where a flap of skin blocks the flow of urine from the bladder to the urethra. This prevents the baby from passing the amniotic fluid that he swallows while in the womb. The enlarged bladder, full of urine, shows up as a black mass on the ultrasound. "They could also see the kidneys, and you're not supposed to be able to when the baby is that size," Alison said. This signified that the kidneys were under great stress. At that point there was nothing the doctors could do, because there was still amniotic fluid present in the womb. By January, however, and at 26 weeks gestation, Alison had almost no amniotic fluid left, which threatened to cause premature labor. Doctors feared the baby would be born before his lungs had time to develop. They sent Alison to Central Baptist hospital for a few days, where doctors tapped his bladder to check his kidney function. They could tell

Lesson can be learned from the 'Greatest Generation

By JAMES COOK
Times Editor

They are called "The Greatest Generation." The young men and women who fought and died to help America at a pivotal time in history are now slowly fading away. Their actions, their decisions and their beliefs of doing what was right have helped to keep this nation free. It also helped put our country on the road to becoming a super power and the nation that many others looked up to. World War II was that defining moment in history that set the course for America. Many of the values from those days have passed away, but so many are still intact.

To find out why and how they did what they did, what advice they would give to the younger generations, The Times editor sat down with eight veterans of that war at the Stanton Dairy Queen, thanks to the owner Pete Thomas and with the help of Chester Lacy. So far, as of press time, of the hundreds of men and women who served in WW II from Powell County, only 15 remain. Here is a chance to meet some of them: • Oscar Rogers, 90 - He served in the U.S. Army from 1943-1946 in the European theatre. After being drafted he was shipped to Liverpool, England and then went to France across the English Channel. He ended up in Germany with the 12th Armored Division. When the war stopped he became a driver for an officer who wanted to apparently travel all over Germany. He got to see Berlin and one of Hitler's strongholds, Garden. After the war He went into farming for about five years before going back to work for the government. Rogers worked for the VA in Lexington until he retired. His advice to today's generation is "Get into a good church, serve the Lord and live a good life." • Woodrow Frazier, 88 - He served in U.S. Army with the 3rd Armor Division under the direc-

K-PREP test scores are in; schools need improvement as do most in state

By JAMES COOK
Times Editor

The day that many educators across the state were dreading came last Friday. That is when the new standards for schools and testing rankings were released by the Kentucky Department of Education. Under the new standards the scale would be up to 100 and at least 70 percent of the schools would fall into the "Needs Improvement" category. At least that is what the new standards indicated. Powell County Schools overall picked up a 51.1 score. Some local educators believed that smaller, poorer school districts would most assuredly score lower due to not having as many resources.

Though some of the bigger school districts did score higher, some smaller ones were also high scorers. Powell's scores were below the scores that Wolfe County (52.9), Menifee County (52.5) and Lee County (52.4) accumulated. However, it was above the scores that Estill County (48.6) and Owsley County (46.4) picked up. Clark County scored 56.9, but was lumped into the Needs Improvement category like the aforementioned counties. Only Montgomery County, which scored a 58.6, made it to the Proficient ranking with a 70 percentile ranking. The KPREP testing was the first time in the state last spring. The scoring system is supposed to rank schools all across the state for the first time. It was also set up to emphasize college and career readiness. According to the KDE the test will also tie the schools to the tough new core content standards in math and English. Reportedly it is also supposed to set a benchmark to see how Kentucky schools compare to what is being taught in other high-scoring countries. "It's a new bar; it's a new standard; it's more rigorous," State Educator Terry Holliday told the Lexington Herald-Leader. "Parents should not be nervous about this. They should work with their teachers and schools and say, 'What do we have to do to help our kids reach these more rigorous stan-

GARRETT: Family prepares as dad gives the ultimate gift

the baby's kidneys were failing.

"They gave me steroid shots in case I had him early to try and accelerate lung development," Alison said. She was sent on to Cincinnati to the Fetal Care Center, one of only three in the United States.

"From weeks 26 to almost 32, I was in and out of that hospital. I qualified for an experimental type of surgery. The doctors there didn't know of anyone else in the States who had had it done at the time.

"They put a port in my hip to a tube that ran into my uterus so they could give big needle infusions of amniotic fluid for the baby to drink in."

At almost 32 weeks--31 weeks and six days to exact--Alison was receiving another infusion when they could see on the ultrasound that the baby "freaked out." His heart rate dropped alarmingly low.

Within minutes, Alison was whisked to the next floor of the hospital, and the baby was taken out in a "true crash c-section."

Garrett Dale Thomas was born at Good Samaritan Hospital in Cincinnati at 2:25 p.m. on Feb. 25, 2011, weighing in at 4 lbs. and 4 oz.

"He was about 15 to 16 inches long, although they had to take him away in such a hurry that they didn't get a very accurate measure of his length.

"He did cry," Alison said, "but he was immediately taken to the NICU and put on a ventilator to make sure he was stable enough to make the trip to Cincinnati Children's Hospital.

"I got to touch his foot as they wheeled him by to put him in the ambulance," she said.

The baby spent 40 days in the NICU at CCH. During that time, a NG tube was placed in his nose for feeding purposes, and an ablation was done to open the valve blocking Garrett's urethra.

They finally got to come home by Easter but knew they were facing dialysis in the future.

"We were able to hold out until July, but we had to go back for weekly visits and labs. An M-G feeding tube and PD catheter were put in place in May, so they had time to heal by the time dialysis was begun in July."

Garrett gets peritoneal dialysis, different from hemodialysis, the kind typically given to diabetics three times a week.

"It is a long confusing process," Alison said, "but we can do it at home. The baby can urinate, and he does, a lot, but because his kidneys don't work, the toxins are still there. The kidneys don't filter them out, which effects just about everything in the body.

"Every night Garrett is on dialysis for eight hours. The crib is set up next to the dialysis machine, and a recliner right beside it.

"We go through 14 boxes of supplies each month. We have a whole closet just for his supplies."

In August, Garrett had to have a G-J tube placed, which feeds directly into his jejunum in his lower intestine. "He wasn't eating," Alison says. "He was vomiting 10-15 times a day, not just spit ups, but projectile vomiting."

She said she's had adults tell her that kidney failure makes a person feel nauseous and achy all the time.

"When we first came home, we had to catheterize Garrett every three hours. Now we only do one time a day, but it's because his kidneys are already damaged and it wouldn't do any good."

Garrett Dale was placed on a transplant waiting list soon after he was born. Fortunately, they didn't have to look far for a donor.

Dale was tested around the beginning of the year and found to be healthy enough and a good match.

"I wanted to be the first one tested because he and I are the same blood type," said Dale. "They usually start with immediate family first. We did the testing after he was a little over a year old, because they want them to be close to the size requirements and at least a year old."

Dale and Alison's days now revolve around making sure Garrett is as healthy as possible as they anticipate the transplant.

The military has been very supportive of them in their situation, Dale says.

"They sent me home on emergency leave. Once I had been here and seen the severity of everything, my first sergeant recommended I stay here. Africa was my first deployment.

"They have been very supportive letting me help with his care and be here for everything as well as helping me with the paper work needed at any time."

"Garrett takes everything in stride," Alison said, although there's a lot involved in his care.

"We have to give him two shots a week to help with red blood cell production, and he gets 12 meds a night and four in the morning.

"He's the happiest kid, although developmentally delayed, but that is not our main concern right now. He's getting three kinds of therapy right now, physical, occupational and speech and he's making great strides.

"The sickest kids are the happiest, it seems," says Alison.

Alison admits they've had their "Why me?" moments, but says she considers them lucky to be chosen to take care of a child with special needs.

"We were told twice at the Fetal Care Center that they'd support me if I terminated, but that was not something I was willing to do. I wanted to give him a chance."

"It's been 100% worth it," Alison said.

Next week, if they all stay healthy and the stars align just right, Dale's left kidney will be removed and transplanted into the right side of his young son.

As transplant date nears, "it's getting real," Alison said.

"Dale will be in surgery, and so will our baby. My whole life will be behind those double doors."

Garrett will be admitted the day before and checked out thoroughly to make sure he's ready to go through with the surgery. Dale will be admitted the next morning, and he will be taken down first.

Shortly after, his son's right kidney will be removed and replaced with his father's left kidney, with the shortest amount of time possible in between during the transfer.

"The less time there is with the blood supply cut off, the better," Alison says. "A live donor transplant is likely to work better than one from a deceased donor although those work well too sometimes."

That's why she wants to encourage folks to "share your spare." She says that a person can live a long life with only one kidney.

Surgery to remove a kidney is not as difficult as it once was, either. Dale's surgery will be done laproscopically, with one little cut and a larger cut, just big enough for the doctor's hand to fit.

Kidney donation used to involve an incision from "belly-button to back bone."

Dale will most likely be discharged in about three days. His young son will be in PICU for 3 to 4 days then will be moved out to a regular room for about 10-14 days. They hope to get to stay in the Ronald McDonald house again while the baby is in the hospital.

Once the surgeries are behind them, there will be a whole new care routine to learn. Garrett will be receiving anti-rejection drugs and steroids that will have to be carefully timed. He'll have in and out catheterizations done every few hours. Good care will be just as important then as it is now.

Alison is hopeful though. She has been told by other moms whose children had the surgery that after three or four days they seem to feel better than they ever have.

She hopes that the only tube they'll come home with is the G-J tube, and that the nausea will soon go away so that he can learn to eat on his own.

"We'll have to be very picky about company at Thanksgiving but hope to get to spend Christmas with family," Alison said.

On Halloween Day, Garrett Dale had what they hope to be his last visit with his dialysis nurses. His dad made red velvet cookies for them, and they dressing the baby in a jailbird suit that says "kidney-napper" on it.

Alison says they've become close to all those who have played such a big part in helping Garrett Dale reach this point in his life.

"We have the best doctors," she said. "These babies just didn't live five or ten years ago."

Although their lives have been consumed with the care of their son for the past 20 months, Alison and Dale are still planning for the future.

"When things settle down, I want to advocate for live organ donation," Alison said. "People often think their kidneys will go to a 65-year old drunkard or something, but there are hundreds of kids waiting for kidneys.

Dale hopes to land a job in law enforcement after he recuperates from the transplant surgery.

Caring for Garrett Dale is demanding, but his parents welcome the challenge.

"If you'd told me three years ago that I'd be doing this, I'd have probably jumped off a cliff," says Alison, "I'd have said, 'there's no way.'"

"But I wake up every morning excited to see my baby and take care of him."

SCHOOLS: Scores statewide indicate more needs to be done

dards?" It's going to take a couple of years, but they shouldn't panic."

Every school in the state, from elementary up to high school will be ranked. Holliday wants parents to understand that it is the first year and they should not be too concerned right now. But that schools now know where they need to improve.

Locally, none of the schools hit the magic 70 percentile mark. However, Powell Superintendent Mike Tate has an encouraging outlook. In a press release issued on Monday he said, "The Powell County School district, like other Kentucky school districts, will be adjusting to the new testing accountability system with a system that ranks close to 70% of all districts/schools in the 'Needs Improvement' category.

As the data shows, the district and all surrounding counties, except Montgomery County, are listed as 'Need Improvement'. District and school leadership will be utilizing the data to develop strategies and activities to improve student achievement. Goals will be developed for the district and each school. In the future ALL work will be focused and intentional on meeting goals established on targeting students' needs."

Bowen Elementary scored a 56.8 percent or a 46 percentile, Stanton Elementary was next on the list at 55.2 overall and in the 40 percentile; and Clay City Elementary picked up 54.5 ranking and was in the 37 percentile. The Powell County Middle School scored a 50.3 with a 34 percentile ranking. The Powell County High School scored a 48 percent overall and was in the 19 percentile.

"As superintendent, I am confident that the Powell County District, as well as each individual school, can and will meet Proficient in the future," Tate added.

We need to be proactive, but fair

JAMES COOK
Times Editor

I want to make this week's column short and sweet.

I want to thank all of you who either were there to help or prayed for my daughter an I last week after we had a little accident in front of Bruen's Restaurant. We were both checked out and were a little sore, but are doing OK. I hope the other driver is also doing OK now.

The ambulance, deputies, police and fire crews were quick in their response and it was appreciated.

I only hope that the city or state, or whoever is responsible for Sipple Street will act just as quickly. It has been known for years that the parking situation at the restaurant is bad. It is not really the restaurant's fault and I don't blame them at all.

The other driver that night told police they could not see me coming. I was not driving fast, I know better on that street. The roads were wet and there was just no time to stop or miss the vehicle pulling out in front of me. I can understand and feel for the other driver, it had to be hard to see with the other vehicles blocking their view.

But there are other options for parking or there should be. Maybe the owner of the building that housed Stanton Electronics at one time could be persuaded to allow parking over there for Bruen's. Or maybe a few spots behind the service station could be utilized, they are vacant most of the time.

The situation is bad and it is no secret. But the city or state or whoever needs to be more proactive instead of reactive. It is just a matter of time before it may be too late for someone.

There has to be a solution that is helpful to Bruen's, their customers and the residents of Powell County. We all just need to try and find it together.

I'm just saying . . .

Neely lends a helping hand

The destruction left behind by Superstorm/Hurricane Sandy last week has left many people along the east Coast without power, food, water and even some have lost their homes.

Former Powell County Superintendent Evelyn Neely (top photo, far right) has been in the NY/NJ area helping with Claytons Kitchen. The group helps feed people after disasters such as Sandy.

The group is set up in a Home Depot parking lot and Neely says they are serving 10,000 meals a day.

Our prayers and thoughts are with the people in that area. We also extend our prayers and gratitude for people like Neely who have volunteered to help.

KASPER is working and we must keep working to keep kids safe

By JACK CONWAY
KY Attorney General

On September 22, I received an email from a grieving mother in Oldham County who had lost a child to a prescription drug overdose. Her daughter died at a friend's house after mixing the drug Opana with other substances. She was just 16 years old.

I have received many of these letters and grieved with far too many parents devastated by the scourge of prescription drug abuse. I vowed to each one of these families that I would do everything I could to stop the spread of this epidemic.

Through landmark prescription drug abuse legislation, my Prescription Drug Diversion Task Force and my Keep Kentucky Kids Safe awareness initiative, we are making progress.

Over the past decade, prescriptions for powerful painkillers have soared, making Kentucky the third most medicated state in the nation. Last year, 219 million doses of hydrocodone were dispensed in Kentucky—that's 51 doses for every man, woman and child in this state.

While some irresponsible doctors handed out pain pills like candy, prescription pain-killer abuse rose 900 percent, overdose deaths doubled and we've seen an alarming 2,400 percent increase in the number of babies born addicted to pain killers.

Since House Bill 1 (HB 1) took effect on July 20, 2012, fewer of these highly addictive controlled substances are being dispensed, marking the first reduction in a decade. Doctors are now required to utilize the Kentucky All Schedule Prescription Electronic Reporting (KASPER) system to separate legitimate pain sufferers from doctor shoppers.

Today, KASPER has nearly 22,000 registered users, requesting more than 18,000 reports each day, most of which are returned in a matter of seconds.

Rogue pain clinics are closing up shop in Kentucky. Unable to comply with the new law, 10 pain management clinics have closed their doors. And the Kentucky Board of Medical Licensure (KBML) has disciplined 35 physicians for prescribing violations. 10 faced emergency orders of suspension and five surrendered their licenses.

Under a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) drafted by my office, we are working hand-in-hand with the medical licensure boards, Kentucky State Police (KSP) and the Cabinet for Health and Family Services (CHFS) to share information to identify the most egregious cases of illegal or inappropriate prescribing. Our MOU created a centralized database for boards like KBML to share their complaints regarding illegal or inappropriate prescribing with law enforcement. The system has processed 41 complaints since July.

We are also working together to address a few unintended consequences of HB 1 and will be taking a look at exemptions for long-term care facilities and in-patient hospital services. Our goal is to weed out the very bad actors and ensure patients have the best care possible.

Additionally, we are continuing to work closely with local law enforcement through my statewide drug diversion task force to go after these rogue pain clinics and unscrupulous doctors—doctors like Richard Albert, who prescribed more than 105,000 prescription pills per month at his Paintsville, Ky. clinic with little to no examination of his patients. Dr. Albert pled guilty last summer to federal charges of conspiring to illegally distribute and dispense controlled substances.

Keep Kentucky Kids Safe

Awareness and education continue to be key components of our effort to combat prescription drug abuse. Since I launched the Keep Kentucky Kids Safe program in 2010 with concerned parents, state partners and law enforcement agencies, I've warned more than 15,000 middle and high school students across the state about the dangers of abusing prescription pills.

We are also listening to what students have to say about this issue through our annual Keep Kentucky Kids Safe video public service announcement (PSA) contest. Please encourage a middle or high school student in your life to create a 30-second video PSA and enter it into our competition by Dec. 7, 2012. The winner will receive an Apple iPad. Details are available at <http://ag.ky.gov/rxabuse>.

Finally, if you haven't already done so, please make sure to lock-up and monitor prescription medications in the home and safely dispose of unneeded medications through drop boxes or take-back events.

Working together, we can win the war against prescription drug abuse.

Guest Column: The ghosts of combat haunt every warrior

By ORD ELLIOTT
Guest Columnist

No matter how well-adjusted returning or returned veterans appear, they are likely carrying wounds that cut deep, and that pain sticks with them for the rest of their lives, says Vietnam veteran Ord Elliott.

"When I came back from the war, I filed all that pain away as 'personal,' but it invariably came out in my creative writing, and I think that kept me much more sane," says Elliott, a former platoon commander with the Marines and author of The Warrior's Silence (<http://tinyurl.com/96cv8xj>).

"I still feel a sense that something was lost within me from that war, and it kills me to think that our country's most recent wars have done the same to the latest generation of military personnel. When I hear reports of alarming suicide rates among soldiers and problems with drugs and homelessness, it reminds me of friends I've lost, and the lives they weren't able to have."

While intending to write books about business, Elliott found himself writing poems about his war experience. Through the years, writing became an extremely helpful, therapeutic activity, he says.

"It just came out of me about five years after coming home," he says. "Unfortunately, for many of today's younger veterans from Iraq and Afghanistan, they are expressing their pain through alcoholism, drugs, crime, depression and violence."

There are many avenues available to vets if they're having a hard time adjusting to civilian life after combat, he says.

"In some ways I was lucky; I had a good education from Princeton, a sense of purpose and I never had a full-blown case of post-traumatic stress disorder," Elliott says. "But I think it's safe to say all vets who have seen combat are haunted by what they've endured."

Although most civilians can never understand the horrors of war – of perpetually wondering what that last moment of life might be like – there are ways in which the families of veterans, and others, can help ...

- Make creative expression available: Elliott has heard story after story involving vets who simply do not want to talk about their combat stress. Many simply do not know how to find catharsis in constructive ways. Thoughts and emotions, however, can also be expressed – released – in creative pursuits such as writing, art, music, even cooking.

- Patience and understanding: "You won't go wrong with loving tolerance while seeking the help of a trained professional to help your veteran work through problems like depression and anxiety," Elliott says. "It's important to provide emotional support, including helping vets who need it to get to appointments and joining in on family sessions."

- Thoroughly consider your vote: There are many outstanding efforts going on with non-profits that help today's returning vets, but the best medicine is prevention, he says. In 2001, when the Iraq War was gearing up, that same feeling of anticipation – excitement – washed over Elliott that he experienced before entering Vietnam. "I was surprised that I could feel that way, but then I quickly remembered all that I've been through with the reality of war," he says. "If families and citizens really want to help the men and women of the U.S. military, they will be wary of politicians who haven't been in combat and who are all too quick to the war trigger."

Frazier family sent trio to WWII

Vernon Frazier born in Knowlton, joined the U S Army during WWII. Pvt Frazier was in training to be a paratrooper, but after being injured in an accident, he served in the infantry. In March of 1943, Pvt. Frazier of Co K, 322nd Division of Infantry was designated as a Wildcat Ranger of Camp Rucker, Alabama. He served with the 158th Bushmasters RCT. 81 Infantry Wildcat Rangers.

Pvt. Frazier was later promoted to SGT. Frazier. He was decorated with numerous medals and citations; including a Purple Heart, Silver Star for gallantry in action, four Bronze Stars, Good Conduct, Presidential Unit Citation, Meritorious Unit Citation, Philippine Presidential Citation and Victory Medals.

The letter awarding SGT Frazier the Silver Star states his actions this way:

“Sergeant Frazier, squad leader in the platoon, with a total disregard of his own safety, he rushed down the side of the ravine and out into exposed areas. SGT Frazier was met by a hail of fire from machine guns and snipers. Bullets pierced his clothing and one struck his helmet. He bent down and grabbed the wounded man by the waist, picked up the wounded man’s rifle and slowly, under incessant gun fire, dragged the wounded man back to cover and safety, where he could be given first aid. SGT. Frazier returned to his squad to continue with the battle.”

In 1944 three brothers from Powell County were serving in WW II at the same time. Woodrow, Vernon and Junior Frazier had enlisted in the US Army during WWII. Woodrow and Junior were in Germany, while Vernon was in the South Pacific. There was no picture available for Junior, but Woodrow (right) and Vernon are shown above.

Risk Takers, Life Savers

This is for the people who made a stand,
Who fought for our country, and for this land;
Not just for us, but for them as well.
Risking their lives to save their own,
Not knowing the risks, and facing the unknown;
Battles won and battles lost,
experiencing hell.
Some were wounded and some lives were lost,
For the good of America, for a great cause;
Without them, we would be nothing.
We stand high and proud for the red, white, and blue,
Thanks for everything you’ve done, we salute you;
Some people call you veterans, but we? We call you....
Heroes.

A poem from a PCHS student for Veterans Day.

Some items for this week’s issue will be run next week. We wanted to make sure we honored our Veterans this week. We hope you understand.

VETERANS: WWII generation has so much to share

tion of General George Patton from 1944-1946 in the European theatre. Frazier had two brothers also serving in WWII. One was in Europe, though he said he never saw him while he was there. The other fought in the South Pacific. Frazier saw most of his encounters in France. For a while he had to watch over prisoners of war as the war came to an end.

When Frazier came home he tried his hand at farming and even worked for his dad. “My father was the jailer here for about three years and I worked with him,” Frazier recalled.

- Roger Stacy, 84 – He was member of the U.S. Marine Corps from 1946-1949. Unlike many of his fellow veterans of that era, he volunteered. Many were drafted, yet proud to serve their nation just as well. Stacy served in the South Pacific. After the war and his discharge he went to school at the former Lees College in Jackson. He later moved to Middletown, Ohio where he worked for Armco Steel.

Stacy began trucking and hauling steel which he did for 13 years before moving back to Powell County in 1969. He worked for Columbia Gulf until he retired in 1990.

- Harry Rose, 87 - He served in the South Atlantic with the U.S. Navy from 1943-1946. His ship and crew sailed near Cuba and South America. He said he loved the Navy so much he’d go with them again. “Don’t know why, I can’t swim all that good,” He joked. “But with them we had three meals a day and a bed to sleep in.

Rose worked for Tennessee Gas after the war for 38 years and he retired. But they called him back and he worked two more years. He also worked at Wal-Mart for 12 years.

- Ernest Snowden, 88

– Snowden is probably the most decorated veteran in the county. Snowden joined the U.S. Marines in 1942 when he was 17 years old. He fought in battles at Guadalcanal (four months), New Guinea (three months), New Briton (four months) and Peleliu (three days). He was wounded in the fighting at New Britain and Peleliu. After those injuries and 30 months of combating, he was sent back to the states.

Snowden was awarded two Purple Heart citations for being wounded twice in combat. He also earned the Asiatic Pacific Citation with four Bronze Stars and was presented with two Presidential Citations as well as the WWII Victory Medal. Snowden also received a letter from President Harry S. Truman thanking him for his service to his country.

Snowden jogs or walks two or three miles a day if he can and the weather lets him. He can also recall where he was 70 years ago, during the war in today’s time.

After the war he went to Middletown, Ohio to work for about a year and then came back to work at Legget & Platt for 11 years. Snowden also worked for the REA for nine years before spending the next 21 years as an electrician.

His advice to young people today looking to join the service is simple. “Get with someone who has experience,” he stated. One piece of advice he gave could work in all areas of life. “Listen to those who have been there and done that,” Snowden said. “You can survive that way.”

- Frank Snowden, 89 – He served in the Army’s 12th Armored Division’s 714th Tank Battalion in Europe during the war. He said he went on the firing lines on Dec. 23 1944 and was there until the war was over. During his time in combat he can remember destroying German tanks and coming off a snow covered mountain into a valley where the temperature was 80 degrees. But the memory that Snowden will never forget he said is when his group came upon a Jewish concentration camp. “To see how they had been treated, to see them like that,” he recalled, “hurt me worse than anything.”

As for the war itself, Snowden simply remarked, “I wouldn’t go through it again, but I wouldn’t take anything for it.”

After the war he went to work in Dayton, Ohio for a company that made and installed gas tanks for service stations for about a year and a half. He came back to Powell County after that and worked at a sawmill in Winchester, known as Freemans, for 32 years.

His advice to young people was two fold. “Do the best you can at whatever you do,” Snowden added, “If you go to the service (military) there are some good things in there. It’s not gravy, but it is a good place to retire.”

- John L. Cox, 91 – Cox is probably the veteran from that era that suffered the most. Cox was a radio operator aboard a B-17 with the 94th Bomb Group in the 8th Air Force. His group flew several missions over Europe from 1942 thought 1945. His plane was shot down over Brunswick, Germany and became a prisoner of war. He would be held by the enemy for 16 months.

“I can remember all I ever wanted to do was be a radio operator on a B-17, don’t really know why I didn’t live near any airports,” he stated as he began to smile. “I got to do that until the Germans interrupted that.”

During those 16 months he had just two things on his mind, “Getting back to Pine Ridge,” he joked. “But in a more serious tone he said, “Surviving was the main thing you thought about in a place like that.”

His captors fed the prisoners very little. They would receive a Red Cross parcel occasionally. “The thing they served us the most was rutabaga soup,” Cox recalled. “It was colored water with a few worms and dirt in it.” Cox lost 80 pounds in those 16 months.

The POW camp was taken by American forces on May 8, 1945. From there Cox was sent to Camp Lucky Strike in France then on to New York City. They sent my group to Florida to hand out on the beaches a couple of week,” Cox recalled. “It was nice.”

After the war Co went back to finish law school. He had already finished two of the five years he needed before he went to serve his country. After finishing law school he started his practice in Stanton. From 1948 until he retired in 2009 he worked in Powell County. He was elected county judge, the last Republican to hold the post. He was also elected as county attorney in 1957 and held that post until 1990. He was very active in the community as he coached a basketball team at Stanton Elementary for a while. He even helped with a Boy Scout troop for some time.

Cox had some good advice for the younger generations. “Have a goal. Set that goal and don’t stop until you reach it,” he said. “No matter how hard it may be just keep chugging along, you’ll get there.”

- Herbert Childers, 85 – Childers served in the U.S. Navy in 1945 and 1946. He said he got in near the end of the war and did not see any combat. He was sent to Pearl Harbor and then to the Marshall Islands where he was assigned to a PT boat until the war was over.

“I really didn’t do as much as these guys did,” Childers said as he looked around the room. But Childers was just as important as any of the others in the room.

Childers was part of the Operation Crossroads on the Bikini Islands in the months following the war.

That operation tested the atomic bomb even more.

“It was hard to believe a little redneck boy like me was part of something like that,” he recalled.

After the war and his enlistment he began driving heavy equipment and became self-employed. He ended up with contracts with the state and was able to sell all of his equipment and retire in 1977.

His advice to the younger generation was quite sound. “I always tried to either make a dollar or improve something every-day,” he said. “The Lord’s been good to me and I’ve been lucky all my life. But if someone who is not going to go to college would learn to drive the heavy equipment, there are always opportunities there.”

These eight men, and the thousands of others who served then, served after and are serving now deserve our utmost respect and honor. This generation did what had to be done and we have all benefited from their sacrifices.

Susie Reed, 72

Susie Mae Banks Reed, 72, of Mt. Sterling, died Monday evening, Oct. 29, 2012 at her residence. She was born July 19, 1940 in Jeffersonville to the late Everett and Amanda Esteppe Banks.

Susie was a Montgomery County native, a believer in Jesus Christ and worshiped at Assemblies of God. She was previously employed at Trojan Manufacturing and was part owner and manager at Mom's Ice Cream Corner in Jeffersonville. Susie loved to travel, fish, and spend time with her family.

Survivors include; one son, David Reed (Schuy Roop) of Richmond; one daughter, Connie Williamson (Robert) of Prichard, West Virginia; one grandson, Joel Reed of Rockville, Maryland; one granddaughter, Shaunna Stockdale (Adam Patton) of Mt. Sterling; two brothers, William Banks (Wanda) of Richmond and Wayne Banks (Millie) of Springboro, Ohio.

In addition to her parents she was preceded in death by her husband, Thomas Clay Reed.

Funeral was Friday, Nov. 2, 2012 at the Christian Assembly of God. Burial followed the funeral in Spruce Cemetery in Jeffersonville. Pastor Jim Wells will be officiating. Pallbearers were Carson Brooks, Dan Banks, Charlie Tyra, Ian Eldridge, Doug Liggett, Joe Reed, Justin Reed, and Mike Donathan.

Honorary Pallbearers were Bob Banks, Randy Reed, Glenn Liggett, Keith Brooks, Lawrence "Tiger" Tyra, and Denny Esteppe. Arrangements under the direct care of Coffman-Adams Funeral Home & Crematory.

Special Thanks

The family of R.D. Knox would like to express their sincere thanks to everyone who shared our grief during this difficult time. We want to express our gratitude to D&D Funeral Home, all the pallbearers, honorary pallbearers and R.D.'s lifelong friends for their love and support. In the days to come, we know we will find healing in God's tender embrace and knowing that others remembered and cared.

Thank you again and God bless you all for keeping our family in your thoughts and prayers.

The family of R.D. Knox

I would like to express my appreciation to all the churches and individuals who participated in the fund raiser that was held for me on October 21. I also want to thank each and every one of you for your prayers as we go through this illness. The outpouring of love and compassion from my home-town friends and family has been a blessing that I cannot describe.

Special thanks goes to Bro. Chris Williams and the Epperson First Church of God for heading up this fundraiser. I also want to thank Vaughn's Mill First Church of God, Bowen First Church of God, Stanton First Church of God, West Bend First Church of God and Morris Creek First Church of God. Each of you dismissed your services on that night to come and participate in this and show your support. That is really special to me!

Most of all, I want to thank God for giving me strength day by day. Without Him, I can do nothing. No matter what we may have to face, He has promised to supply all our needs and because of His people, they are being met. God bless you always!

Winter care for roses; now you can plant spring blooms

MIKE REED
County Ag. Agent

Winter care for Roses

Winter seems to be heading our way whether we are ready for it or not. Pruning your roses may be one of those odd jobs that you get done before the winter winds howl at your door.

Basically we prune roses for four different reasons: to encourage new growth and blooms; to remove dead wood; to improve air circulation and to shape the plant. Pruning is fairly simple, but different types of roses require different types of pruning.

If you have hybrid tea roses, prune now only those scraggly canes that are being whipped around by the wind. Any large canes can cause the plant to sway back and forth and actually be uprooted during the winter. You can prune most of the plant early next spring or go ahead and prune in December. Prune canes down to 24". Leave older canes a little longer to shape the plant. Remove any dead canes. Hybrid teas and grandifloras bloom on new wood and will need to be pruned each year. You will notice how pretty the roses are at the Kentucky State Fair in August. If you check out those plants in mid winter you will see that they are trimmed down to 18-24 inches and mulched heavily each year.

The ever-popular Knock-Out roses which bloom all summer need minimal pruning. Ever-blooming roses do not need to be pruned the first two years in order to establish the plant. After the second summer, use the "one third" method and remove only one third of the growth—usually old and diseased canes. Knock-outs bloom on mature, but not old woody stems, so removing too many canes can reduce blooms for next summer.

Climbing roses need to be pruned in spring after you realize how much dead and damaged wood you will have left. A harder pruning and shaping of the plant may take place during the first flowering.

Miniature roses (if they survive the winter), should be pruned only to shape in the spring.

Rambling, Old fashioned roses which bloom only once in the early summer should be pruned after flowering only to shape the bush.

What could be even more important than pruning this winter would be mulching your roses, especially if you have hybrid teas. Most old-fashioned and rambling roses are quite hardy and do not need extra winter protection. Hybrid teas and grandiflora roses may be injured during a severe winter and need their graft union protected. How many times have you bought a rose and enjoyed its beauty that first year, only to be surprised the second year when it basically grew wild and not exactly the color it was the previous summer? The problem here is that the winter chilled the plant and killed the graft union. That graft insured your blooms and your desired variety of rose.

To prevent winter injury, cover each rose with some form of garden soil and mulch now. The mound of soil should cover each graft union of each rose. To do so apply 10-12 inches of soil or aged compost or aged sawdust. DO NOT use grass clippings, new sawdust or leaves. These materials may tie up the nitrogen to the plant or simply blow away during the winter. Mound dirt or mulch around each plant and leave until April, when all danger of frost is past. Don't be too anxious to remove mulch too early.

After properly mulching and pruning each rose, you should be able to enjoy each rose plant next summer. For more information, contact your local Extension Office and ask for the publication on "Growing Roses in Kentucky".

Rescheduled Meeting

The Powell County Livestock Producer's Association will meet on Monday, Nov. 12 at the Powell County Extension Office beginning at 6:30 p.m. this is a re-scheduled meeting. Contact the Extension Office at 663-6405 to secure your meal reservation.

Farmers Market Coupons?

This week's Grain Prices

Central Kentucky grain Prices-November 2, 2012: Corn-$7.67/bushel; Soybeans $5.14/bushel .

Walnuts?

If you still have walnuts on your farm and want to take advantage of them now, the Zahare's of Montgomery county —Highway 213 are still taking walnuts until November 18, 2012. Walnuts prices are $13.00 per one hundred pounds (shelled weight). The Zahare's are open during the week, but closed on Saturdays.

Is it a Christmas or Thanksgiving Cactus??

If you have somewhat of a green thumb, you brought all your plants inside last month off the porch and into your home, basement or greenhouse. One of the plants you might have brought inside may be a Christmas Cactus. You may have a true Christmas Cactus or Thanksgiving (Crab )Cactus. Most of us do not know there was a difference. Mostly the only difference is the time in which they bloom. Regardless, flower buds should be developing now, so these plants need to be exposed to a dark period in your basement or garage. Hold off the fertilizer and water only maybe one every two weeks or so. This shock treatment involving lack of water and additional darkness should initiate bud development and your cactus should bloom for your holiday guests. Don't forget about this plant. It can be a welcome sight and addition to the holiday decor in your home. Plants should flower for 3-4 weeks and should begin in late November, if you're not enjoying those blooms already.

Plant bulbs now for Spring blooms

If you always enjoy and appreciate your neighbor's tulips and daffodils in April and May and declare that you wish you had a few of those in your yard, now is the time to get with it and get planting. All the spring flowering bulbs such as tulips, daffodils, hyacinths and crocus should be planted now before the Thanksgiving weekend . If you stop by your local garden center or department store, you will find many of these spring bulbs in mass now. These are usually sold by colors so you can choose a vivid, contrasting color to go along with them. Remember that bulbs show up better when planted in mass groups, not single file-side by side. Plant tulips deeper than most bulbs—at least 4-6 inches deep to keep them from freezing and from rodents. Daffodils should be planted 3-4 inches deep, crocuses -2 inches.

By planting now, in mid November, you should be able to see a few shoots in March, and possibly even a few flowers next April. For more information on fall planting of spring flowers, stop by the Powell County Extension Office at 169 Maple Street in Stanton.

Mason ends Pirates season in first round of playoffs, 48-21

By GREG MCINTOSH
Times Sportswriter

The Powell County Pirates football team was considered an outside contender to make the playoffs this season. With two district wins, the Pirates won their way into the playoffs as a four seed. The Pirates faced the Mason County Royals in Maysville last Friday night. Mason County went undefeated in their district to earn a home playoff game. Mason County won the coin toss and elected to take the ball first on the cold night. The Royals started out hot with an opening drive that ended with a 14 yard touchdown pass for the first score of the game. Mason led 7 - 0 just minutes into the game. Powell got the ball on offense and came out with the belly package to run the football. Kienan Tiller and Chance Snowden ran the ball for first downs. The Pirates moved the ball down the field using time on the clock. Isaac Hall ran the ball for a big first down to put the Pirates in scoring position. Matt Brooks ran the ball on a quarterback sneak to score from 1 yard out. Wesley Tessari added the extra point to tie the score at 7 - 7. Mason got the ball back and used the run to end the first quarter.

Mason had the ball and was moving down the field on the Pirate defense. With 9:28 to go in the second quarter, the Royals scored on a 1 yard run by their quarterback to retake the lead 14 - 7. Powell got the ball back and ran the clock down. The Pirates had first down and ten yards to go from the Mason 11 yard line. Powell ran the ball four times but could not get the first down and Mason took over on downs. The Powell defense forced Mason to punt and the Pirates got the ball back with under two minutes to play in the half. Powell spread the offense but could not score on the Royals. The half ended with a short pass from Brooks to Brett Goodwin. Mason led 14 - 7 at halftime.

The Pirates came out to start the third quarter with confidence and the ball. Powell used runs by Tiller, Hall and Brooks to move the ball down the field. Powell then spread the field and began to pass and was forced to punt. Stephen Skidmore punted the ball away for the Pirates. Mason ran into Skidmore for a penalty and Powell got the ball and a first down. Powell continued to throw the ball and had third down and goal to go from the 7 yard line. Brooks went back to pass but the ball was intercepted at the 2 yard line by Mason. The Royal defender took the ball 98 yards for the touchdown to give Mason a 21 - 7 lead with 6:48 to go in the quarter. Powell threw the ball down the field but once again was stopped and lost the ball on downs. Mason had the lead and the ball at the end of the quarter.

Powell's defense (above) held tough most of the evening against Mason County, while Kienan Tiller (below, left) tried to pick up some yardage. But the Royals were just too much for the Pirates on this night. Mason won the game 8-21 and will advance to the next round of the Class 3A Playoffs.

Mason quickly scored to increase their lead to 28 - 7 to start the fourth quarter. Powell turned the ball over on downs again and Mason scored again to bring the score to 35 - 7 with 7:38 to play in the game. Powell quickly scored with a 63 yard touchdown pass from Brooks to Goodwin to bring the score to 35 - 14. Powell attempted an onside kick but Mason recovered the ball. Mason drove the ball deep in the Pirate end of the field and seemed ready to score again. Tiller stripped the ball away from the Mason runner and ran 80 yards for the Pirate touchdown.

With 4:49 to play the Pirates were back in the game at 35 -21. Mason settled down and ran the ball on the Pirates. Another touchdown put the game out of reach at 42 - 21. Powell got the ball one last time at moved the ball inside the Mason 5 yard line. As time expired, Mason intercepted a Brooks pass and ran 100 yards for a touchdown. Mason defeated Powell by the score of 48 - 21.

Powell's season ends with a record of 2 - 9 and a loss in the first round of the playoffs. The Pirates earned a spot in the playoffs in a six team district and played well. Mason had nothing but respect for the Pirate players and coaching staff for their efforts to come back and keep the game close. Thanks to all the Powell seniors for an interesting season.

Cross Country qualifies for State

By KAYLA MAYS
Times Reporter

The Powell County Cross Country Team has advanced to State Cross Country Meet. This past Saturday the Cross Country team ran in their Regional Competition where the team finished 4th place over all.

Mark Ventura won 1st place overall, was named to 1st team all region. He also set a course record. Brooke Moree received 5th place and was named to 1st team all region. Brandon Baker placed 9th and Jacob Trent placed 12th and they were both named to 2nd team all region.

All of Powell's runners, with the exception of Mark Ventura who ran with an injury to his right leg, received personal records at the Region Meet. The Cross Country team will compete at State this Saturday at the Kentucky Horse Park.

Why "Y"

By Ken Simon

It seems these days that most people, and even children, are familiar with the classic song "Y.M.C.A." It's sung at dances and events all over this country along with people who make arm motions spelling out the four letters. The song speaks of how the YMCA will help in times of need. The Red River Family YMCA is shaping up to help meet the need of improving the quality of life in our community.

So you may be asking yourself, "Why do we need a local Y?"

A YMCA is an "association of people"; not a building, a swimming program, or a recreation center. It is a movement of people helping each other to reach their highest potential and making communities better places to live. That's why a "Y" is such an important addition to the quality of life in our community. When you look at local statistics for childhood obesity and adult onset diabetes; it makes sense to have a local association of people committed to improving the health of its citizens.

Local community granted a YMCA

In August of 2011, after two years of planning, a Powell County YMCA Branch was granted by the Winchester YMCA Board of Directors. The Winchester Y Board gave the approval to Executive-Director Bill Pace in his oversight and guidance of the newly developed "Red River Family YMCA".

"We're excited about the future impact a local YMCA will have for our children and families," said Stacy Crase, founding member and local YMCA Advisory Board chairperson. Crase stated the YMCA Vision Statement is something the Health Coalition embraced early on in the process. "The Y. We're for youth development for healthy living and social responsibility.

"One person cannot start or sustain a YMCA and it has taken us over two years to finally see our vision come into being," said Crase. "It's a great opportunity for our community to move forward."

Y Executive-Director Bill Pace pointed out that everyone needs to realize that "YMCAs are not buildings; they are associations of people and programs." Adding, "Winchester began as a branch of the YMCA of Central Kentucky (Lexington) and operated out of schools, churches, parks, fields, for 10 years until they got a facility."

What is the YMCA?

YMCAs work to incorporate the four values: caring, honesty, respect, and responsibility into all YMCA programs and activities. It is also to put Christian principles into practice through programs that build healthy spirit, mind, and body for all.

Y's offer programs for youth, adults, families and older citizens...through youth sports, camps, family activities, teen programs, health and fitness, parent/child programs, adult sports leagues, and more.

Crase stated that the Y is not interested in duplicating services or programs already offered in the community; however, the Y Advisory Board would like those groups who already conduct programs in our community to come to one of the Y meetings to discuss the mutual benefit of being collaborative partners.

Why does the YMCA need local charitable contributions?

Contributions help the YMCA achieve our mission in many ways:

- Furnish support to programs for those in need
- Provides the opportunity to offer highly subsidized and staff-intensive programs (teen programs, counseling, youth work)
- People get involved because they believe in our vision and it feels good to help others in their community

Founders Campaign Breakfast and local support

"For everyone who has ever said that our kids need something to do in Powell County, this Founders Campaign is for you. It's a chance for us to go down in history as the citizens of this community that came together to make this Y happen for our children and future generations," Crase said.

The Red River Family YMCA Advisory Board has set a goal of raising $300,000 to cover five year start up costs. A Founders Campaign breakfast meeting is set for Nov. 16th at 9:00 a.m. at the Extension Office to kick start the funding campaign. All local businesses, organizations, and individuals interested in committing to the future development and financial stability of the local Red River Family Y are invited to attend this Founders Breakfast. You may RSVP to 481-6166.

"Of course, we are looking for, and will greatly appreciate corporate and business donations, but just imagine how quickly $25, $50, or $100 from everyday families could add up," Crase stated.

The First "Red River Family YMCA" Program

The first ever YMCA activity in Powell County was a week-long Summer Day Camp held July 9th-13th at the Stanton City Park. The Camp hosted 77 kids who were entering 1st - 6th grade with 20 high school students serving as teen counselors. A highlight of Y Camp included a visit from New York Jets professional football player, Yermiah Bell, who spoke to the kids about never giving up on your dreams and overcoming barriers to achieve success.

"The feedback about the camp was amazing," explained Crase. "The kids had a great time and the parents all answered that they would send their children to Y Camp again next year."

Other events included: playing in the city's splash park, learning about nutrition and healthy snacks, living a drug-free life, and various physical activities and games.

Early Start Flag Football League

Another program started by the local "Y" was a Flag Football League for elementary aged children. The league was started to help get young kids involved in football at an early age as a feeder program to help improve the school district's football program. The league was made up of 44 players and 16 cheerleaders with six weeks of games played on Saturday mornings at the Powell County High School football field.

The Future of the Red River Family YMCA

"While we are looking to raise this Founders Campaign money, we are also moving forward with programming to continue to grow and expand the YMCA's presence in our community," Crase said.

Additionally, the local Y is discussing after-school programming for school-aged students from 4-6 p.m., indoor t-ball, adult sports, adult walking programs, weight loss programs and more.

If you would like to volunteer, make a financial contribution, or attend YMCA meetings; the group meets every third Tuesday of the month at 12:30 p.m. at the Powell County Extension Office. For more information call Stacy Crase at 481-6166 or Ken Simon at 663-3318.

"The moon is my father, the sea is my mother; I have a million brothers, I die when I reach land. What am I?" "Maybe it's the sun," Chloe said. "Yes, the son. That makes sense, sons, boys, brothers," I explained. "Not s-O-n but s-U-n," Chloe said. "Oh!" "Focus on 'I die when I reach land,'" Dad suggested. Doc had included a card for Dad so he knew the answer and where to go. Finally, Chloe said, "I know the riddle." "Wait," I shouted. "Don't tell me. Is it a, uh, a mermaid?" "Great guess, Woody,"

Chloe said, "but I think it's a wave." "Yes, great guess, Woody," Dad said, "but Chloe is correct. It's a wave, and we will find out soon how the riddle relates to today." As we pulled into the marina at Lake Cumberland, our new trainer was waiting. "Hey, family! I'm your trainer, Julie. As you probably know, one of the many things Kentucky is known for is its abundance of water," Julie said, talking faster than anyone I had ever heard. "There are numerous lakes and rivers. Lake Barkley, Kentucky Lake, Cave Run Lake, Nolin Lake, Dale Hollow Lake; the list is endless. And there are just as many activities you can do on the lake; canoeing, kayaking, sailing, scuba diving, water skiing and wakeboarding. Any of those activities can build the muscles in your upper and lower body, and improve stability and flexibility." It was obvious that Julie loved water sports. As she worked, she flexed her tanned arm muscles. I wondered whose muscles were bigger, mine or Julie's. I flexed my muscles to see. Mom must have noticed because she said, "I don't think you're there yet, Woody, but it won't be long." "OK, family, put on these life jackets and let's wakeboard," Julie said. "Wakeboarding is a cross between water skiing, snowboarding and surfing. You'll put both back feet, uh, paws, on the board while you use your two front paws to hold the tow rope. Once you're set, the boat will pick up speed and travel about 20 miles an hour. Your goal is stay on the board and ride the waves, dude," Julie said as she looked at me. It was the first time she had taken a breath in 10 minutes and the first time anyone had called me dude. My tanned muscles must have inspired the cool name. "Once you get really good, you can start doing some tricks like grabs, spins and invert," Julie said. "For now, just stay on the board. OK, everyone in the motor boat. You're up first, dude," she said, pointing to me. "Uh, Miss Julie, shouldn't you demonstrate first?" I suggested as my family got in the boat, also looking nervous. "Nothin' to it, dude. You'll be fine." I put my back paws on the board and held the tow rope with my front paws. I must have been cold because I was shaking like a leaf. My knees wobbled, my teeth chattered and my tail stayed tucked. And if I didn't know better, I would have thought I was in Florida. I had no idea we could do something like this right here in our own state. I was excited knowing that after working hard all week our family could spend our weekends traveling in Kentucky and participating in all these adventures! WHOA! The boat took off, and the next thing I knew this dude was riding the waves. After a few seconds, my body relaxed. I stood up a little straighter and was even able to look around the lake. My family watched me closely while Julie divided her time between looking at me and driving the boat. Julie must have thought I was doing well because the boat started to go faster.

I'd seen how someone on TV had performed tricks, so I decided to try something. I didn't know if it was an actual trick, but I leaned my body toward the water and let it coast along. Julie increased the speed, and the next thing I knew I had lost the tow rope and the board.

Once again we want to thank the Powell County Schools for allowing us the opportunity to bring the Dogwood series to the third grade students this year. If you would like to help sponsor the series contact us at 663-5540.

Wise planning can make holiday spending better

PAM DOOLEY
*County Home Ec.
Agent*

With the leaves falling and the nightly temperatures dipping lower, we know that the holiday season will soon be upon us. It seems the holiday seasons start earlier every year. Although we may not be ready, now is the time to start preparing for upcoming holiday expenses. Getting an early start will help reduce holiday stress and your after-holiday bills, often known as the holiday financial hangover.

Before the holiday season moves into high gear, take time to get prepared. Review your current financial situation and determine a holiday spending limit that works with your family budget. To make certain you are not tempted to increase that limit as the season progresses, develop a budget for gift-giving, food, travel and entertainment expenses. Additional expenses which are often left out of a holiday budget include gasoline, babysitter fees, and eating out more often.

As you work on the budget, start by making a list of everyone you plan to give a gift, including children, loved ones, teachers, babysitters, hair dressers, etc. Identify a realistic spending limit and a possible gift for each person on your list. It is important that you do not feel pressured to give anyone a gift. If your finances are tight this year, consider a hand-written note expressing thanks or appreciation. Continue to work your way through your holiday budget by estimating other anticipated expenses. If you have receipts or credit card statements from last year, you may be able to use them as a guide in developing a realistic estimate for travel, entertainment, and food expenses.

As you are preparing your budget for the upcoming holidays, think about how you will pay for holiday shopping and expenses. You are less likely to overspend if you pay with cash, once all of your cash is gone, you are finished with your holiday shopping. Another option to consider: many stores now offer layaway plans. If you decide to use store layaway options be certain to check their return policy and keep track of all payments.

Plan holiday shopping trips ahead of time, review store ads, and know exactly who and what you are shopping for prior to entering the store. Impromptu shopping trips and wondering around a store looking for gift ideas can lead to impulsive purchases which were not part of your original budget. Do your window shopping at home using catalogs or online, so that you know exactly what you want when you are at the store. Finally, remember that holiday sales can be tempting, so once you are in the store, stick with your original budget.

Educational programs of Kentucky Cooperative Extension serve all people regardless of race, color, age, sex, religion, disability, or national origin.

Holiday Workshop - Living Well

Date: Nov. 8

Time: 6 p.m.

Place: Powell County
Extension
Office

Cost: $10

Living Well for the Holidays will be the focus of this year's annual Holiday Workshop. This is a favorite event for many in our community as we kick off the holiday season. The first 55 participants at the door will receive a copy of Living Well-More Than a Cookbook! This book is valued at $29.95 and includes not only recipes but information in home safety, care of textiles, living green, financial management, etiquette and more.

As always, there will be food sampling at the end of the program so you can pick your favorite dishes for the season. We will also enjoy a program on holiday decorating ideas using live greenery presented by Mike Reed, Agriculture Agent. This will be a great evening for those in attendance!

Please call the extension office to register to help us have an idea of how many to prepare for.

Powell 4-H receives funding

Kentucky Commissioner of Agriculture James Comer announced in February that for the first time, the proceeds from the farm license plate - voluntary donations would be divided equally among 4-H, FFA, and Kentucky Proud. Farmers can make the $10 donation when they renewed their license plates.

The 4-H share for the fiscal year ending June 30, 2012 was $121,708.64 and benefits all levels of Kentucky 4-H. The Kentucky 4-H Foundation splits the donations equally between the county from which the funds originated and the Foundation. Half of the donations used by the Foundation will support state level programs. The other half will support county programs where the donation originated, making this a great opportunity for local 4-H Councils, Clubs, and members to increase financial support for their program.

"The voluntary donations from the Kentucky farm license plate renewals will help Kentucky 4-H give young people around the Commonwealth opportunities that develop leadership, citizenship, and life skills," said Agriculture Commissioner James Comer.

Over 228,000 youth are involved in KY 4-H programs. Kentucky ranks in top 10 in several 4-H enrollment categories nationwide.

"The Kentucky 4-H Foundation is working with Commissioner Comer and the Kentucky FFA Foundation to raise awareness about the farm license plate voluntary donation program," said Keith Rogers, Executive Director of the Kentucky 4-H Foundation. "This is an excellent opportunity for our agricultural community to support the youth of Kentucky and Kentucky Proud program. We encourage those with farm tags to make the $10 donation next March when they renew their farm license plates."

4-H youth are a living, breathing, culture-changing revolution for doing the right thing, breaking through obstacles, and pushing our country forward by making a measurable difference right where they live. Please visit the 4-H Foundation's new website at www.kentucky4hfoundation.org.

National Hospice Care Month

The month of November is National Hospice Month and to honor the work that Hospice East does in Powell County, county judge executive James Anderson signed a proclamation last week designating November as National Hospice Care Month. With Anderson are members of the Hospice East offices in Stanton. They are (l to r): Stacy Spencer, RN, CRT; Charity Pinkerton, CAN; Kelly Watts, RN, CHPN; and Johnell McNees, MSW. Rev. Anthony Mollihan was unable to be at the signing but is an important part of the care provided by hospice.

PCMS Students of the Week

*Let's support all of

PCHS Student of the Week

Matthew Brooks is this week's PTO Student of the Week at Powell County High School. He is the son of Troy and Deana Brooks of Stanton.

Matt is a junior and he's the quarterback for the Pirates football team. He is also a member of the basketball team and participates in track and field. In addition, Matt is a member of the Beta Club, LEAD, the Key Club, and FBCLA.

Matt likes the environment at the high school because "everyone knows everyone", and he enjoys learning about the history of our country in James Clapp's AP U.S. History class.

This is the second year Matt has been voted PTO Student of the Week. He was nominated by his Pre-Calculus teacher, Stacy Linn.

His future plans include attending college and majoring in Pre-Medicine and then "go on to medical school and see where that leads me."

Student of the Week is a program sponsored by the PTO and recognizes students who are role models in the areas of study, effort, cooperation, and attitude. Other nominees this week include Chris Crabtree, Chris Hall, Stevie Jo Randall, and Jacob Trent.

ENCOURAGING WORD: A DAY ON WHICH WE REMEMBER

Howard Coop
Guest Columnist

They are all around us. Every day, in one way or another, we come into contact with them, greet them, and engage them in conversation. For the most part,

As I pushed a cart through the grocery store looking for items on my shopping list, I saw movement in another aisle that caught my attention. Another man pushing a cart was looking for items on his shopping list. But there was a difference. He appeared to walk with ease but on two artificial limbs. And I wondered.

they are just one of us--ordinary folk who live and work in our midst as our neighbors, our friends, and, maybe, even members of our extended family. But there is one thing that sets them apart and gives them uniqueness: They are military veterans who--sometimes in time of crisis--served our country in some branch of the military.

Their service, noble in our eyes and sacrificial to them, helped to keep this land we love safe and preserve the precious freedom we, as citizens of the United States of America, have enjoyed since 1776 when independence was declared from Great Britain and a new nation, "conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal," was established.

Since June 1, 1954, when President Dwight D.

Eisenhower signed a bill, passed by both houses of the Congress and sent to his desk, naming November 11 Veterans Day, that day has been a set apart as a national holiday. But it is more; it is a special day on which we of this land remember, with gratitude and appreciation, the unselfish service and personal sacrifice of veterans living in our midst who, without hesitation, reported for duty, obeyed orders, faced life-threatening danger, and went wherever duty required to defend and protect our beloved land and preserve the precious freedom we enjoy every day as citizens of this great land.

Because of their service to our country, veterans deserve our deepest appreciation and respect.

MASTER COMMISSIONER’S SALES - NOVEMBER 17, 2012

Pursuant to and compliance with the Judgment and Order of Sale of the Powell Circuit Court, The Commissioner will offer for sale at public outcry, to the highest and best bidder on November 17, 2012, beginning at the hour of 9:00 a.m. local time, at the Court-house Door, Stanton, Kentucky property described in the action set out below. Said property shall be sold to raise the amounts hereinafter set forth, together with interest and the costs of the action, and upon the following terms and conditions.

(A) At the time of sale the successful bidder shall either pay cash or make a deposit of ten (10%) percent of the purchase price with the balance on credit for sixty (60) days UNLESS OTHERWISE SHOWN AT THE END OF A PARTICULAR SALE. Or the purchaser shall have the privilege of paying all or a greater portion thereof than ten percent (10%) at the date of purchase or of prepaying the balance of the purchase price with accrued interest. In the event the successful bidder desires or elects to credit the balance, he or she will be required to post bond and furnish an acceptable surety thereon. Said bond shall be for the unpaid purchase price and bear interest at the rate of twelve (12%) percent per annum from the date of sale until paid. The bond shall have the force and effect of a judgment in order to secure the payment of the balance of the purchase price and said bond shall constitute a prior and superior lien on the property until paid. No bond or earnest money shall be required in the event that the Plaintiffs hereto shall be the purchasers and the bid is less than their adjudged lien.

(B) The purchasers shall be required to assume and pay all taxes or assessments upon the property for the 2012 taxes, the current tax year and all subsequent years. All taxes or assessments upon the property for prior years shall be paid from the sale proceeds. The property shall further be sold subject to any delinquent State, County and /or City real estate taxes sold pursuant to the provisions of KRS Chapter 134 to any private purchaser during the pendency of this action.

(C) The property shall otherwise be sold free and clear of any right, title and interest of all parties to the action and of their liens and encumbrances there on, and all existing liens recorded after the recording of the plaintiff’s Lis Pendens Notice; excepting and subject to however, easements, restrictions, stipulations and covenants of record in the Powell County Court Clerk’s Office, any facts which an inspection and accurate survey of the property may disclose, and any assessments for public improvements levied against the property.

(D) Purchasers shall not be entitled to the possession of the real estate until the Court’s confirmation of the sale and the payment in full of the purchase price and delivery of the deed unless the Plaintiffs’ are the purchasers.

(E) Risk of loss of the improvements of the real property shall pass to the purchaser or purchasers at the time of sale. The successful bidders may, (unless otherwise stated at the end of a sale) from the date of sale until the purchase price is fully paid, carry fire and extended coverage insurance on the improvements on such property to the extent of the court appraised value of said improvements or the unpaid balance of the purchase price, whichever is less, with a loss clause payable to the Master Commissioner of the Powell Circuit Court.

(F) Upon default of the payment of the deposit or posting of bond b the purchaser, the Master Commissioner shall immediately re-sell the property upon the same terms and conditions set out herein.

(G) If the total purchase price is not paid in cash, the ten percent (10%) deposit made by the purchaser shall be applied to any expenses incurred by a default of the purchaser
